Some of you may remember my little pet project at Ameegos.com which I set up to teach myself some FCS skills back in the days. The site is still ticking over nicely with a loyal following of a nice bunch of people. And not only that but one of them (Weisel) has now written a song about Ameegos and it's brilliant!

Obviously you'd have to know the regulars on the site to appreciate the song fully but still I think it's good even for 'outsiders'. Enjoy.

PS: there's also a blog about the site - which makes me think I really ought to build a user profile system. In fact I wouldn't mind paying someone to do this for me... Do you have some Coldfusion skills? Contact me if you'd like to take on the project of building a little user administration system (basic user profiles, image upload, password management, the usual).
